CHICAGO--(BUSINESS WIRE)--Inter Ocean Cabinet Company, a Chicago-area custom architectural woodworking company, has launched a new Web site at www.interoceanacabinet.com documenting the company's history, capabilities and dozens of its successful woodworking fabrication and installation projects for clients in a variety of industries.

Later this year, the company will celebrate the 110th anniversary of its founding, making it one of the longest established architectural woodworking contractors in the Midwest. In addition to displaying professional photos of its client work, Inter Ocean Cabinet Company will use its new Web site to inform its customers, contracting partners and other constituents of special events and plans to commemorate its 110th anniversary.

"We're proud of our work and of the relationships we've built over the years with our general contractor partners, the architects and designers, our clients, and our suppliers," said John Farrell, president of Inter Ocean Cabinet Company. "Through our new Web site, we can share not only pride of our workmanship but also our thanks to the people and companies that have contributed to our success as we celebrate this milestone year."

Among the projects shown on the new Web site are photos of work fabricated and installed for the Hyatt Regency Chicago, Komatsu America, Hudson Highland Group, the Morton Arboretum, the Reserve Bank at Evanston, the American Girl Place and UBS Paine Webber. Several projects are highlighted in 360-degree panoramic shots.
